Responsibilities of the Faculty Member on the Board of Trustees

- Devote your time and energy, as necessary, to faithfully and diligently prepare for and participate in the Board’s meetings as a voting member of the Board.
- Use your unique insights into university operations that come from you being an active, engaged and attentive faculty member to express views and perspectives that represent the best interests of the university and the citizens of Oregon. (Note: this is not a faculty advocacy position.)
- Participate in constructive, informed deliberations by considering and sharing reliable information, thinking critically, asking good questions and respecting diverse points of view in order to reach decisions that are in the best interests of the institution and the citizens of Oregon.
- Avoid even the perception of a possible conflict of interest with financial, personal and family interests.
- Learn where the institution fits into the overall state higher education policy agenda.
- Participate, as appropriate, in University functions.

Time Commitment

The Board meets for two full days, four times per year. It also holds a one-full-day retreat in the fall. Missing meetings is not an option. While the overall time commitment is estimated at 10%, it is not evenly distributed. In addition to the ongoing effort it takes to stay engaged across the OSU community, there are meeting materials prepared in advance of each meeting that one must digest and be prepared to discuss effectively prior to every Board meeting. It is important to note that serving as the faculty Board Member is an activity the faculty member commits to in addition to their regular duties.

How to Apply

Send applications or nominations as an email Word attachment to Vickie Nunnemaker at Faculty.Senate@oregonstate.edu, with a Subject line of ‘BOT Faculty Member’, no later than close of business on November 20, 2020. The application shall include a one-to-two-page letter explaining why you or your nominee would be a great fit for this position. Selected applicants will eventually need to fill out online forms for the Governor’s Office, which then trigger a background check.

Candidates who are not selected by the Executive Committee may directly apply to the Governor’s office themselves.
