Hi, Carol and Michele and Inara:

I'd like to thank Inara for sending the information below. The CTL website is the indeed the best place to start!

As APA is focusing more on programmatic learning outcomes and assessments, the CTL is the leader on all things course related. In deference to that, I called Regan Gurung, Interim Director of the CTL to create some synergy between CC, APA, and CTL. This is a great opportunity to connect OSU faculty with CTL resources.

- Regan Gurung at the CTL said the webpage https://ctl.oregonstate.edu/resources/find/six-principles?term_node_tid_depth=16 is the best quick-help planning and alignment CTL resource for faculty. This is a help-link you could send to faculty if you need to send a proposal back because work is needed in those areas.
- Regan offered to have Funmi Amobi deliver a 15 minute "Sparkshop" to the curriculum council on Best Practices in Learning Outcomes and Assessment. If you'd like for her to do that, all we need to do is to contact Funmi to set it up.
- Faculty can receive one-on-one assistance with their course development if they drop by CTL with their course syllabus.

Carol and Michele - I thought it would be a good idea to share this information with you prior to the next CC meeting on Friday.

Best,
Janice

Subject: Learning objectives

If you're looking for an alternative to Bloom's for learning objectives, this document is linked from the OSU CTL website and is quite helpful:
